The Big Picture

I began writing this article a few weeks ago, while thawing out in Arizona beside the pool with Jan. I was there for a “reunion” concert and for a family simcha. The weather was perfect—sunny and warm every day, approaching 80 degrees, while back east and at home in Toledo everyone was freezing.

Some of you may be aware that one of my interests is cars, and I got the idea for this bulletin article from an article I just read in Motor Trend magazine, by Angus Mackenzie, entitled “The Big Picture: Setting Sun.” In the article he mentions having to miss the Tokyo Motor Show due to a conflict with the Los Angeles Motor Show. He says that not long ago Tokyo’s auto show was the world’s most important auto show, that no one involved in the automotive industry would consider missing, and yet this year he didn’t care about missing it, preferring instead to attend the LA show, or, in his words, “the world doesn’t go to Tokyo anymore.”

This is of great interest to us here in Toledo, where the auto industry serving all three US auto companies, is so vital for our city’s welfare. For example, Chrysler, many of whose iconic Jeeps are manufactured right here on I-75, is predicting annual Jeep sales of over a million this year for the first time ever, a possible sign the recession is finally over. Also worth noting is that Motor Trend’s Car of the Year for 2014 is American—the Cadillac CTS, beating out 21 other worthy contenders, many of them imports, whereas not long ago Caddy was down and out, imports being hugely preferred by former Caddy fans.

What does this have to do with us as Jews? Well, consider the article’s title “The Big Picture.” The same principle of constant change as applied in the article to the auto industry, is clearly demonstrated by the big picture of life in general, and Jewish history in particular. Or as King Solomon says in rather a different way in Ecclesiastes 1:9, “that which has been will come again, and what has been done will be done again.” And so a glance at our Jewish calendar for the upcoming months will reveal a wild roller coaster ride of constantly changing fortunes and emotions: In two weeks Purim, celebrating our near escape from annihilation; exactly a month later Pesach marking our delivery from almost 400 years of tortuous slavery; days later is Yom Hashoa commemorating the annihilation of one-third of our People a mere 70 years ago; days later is Yom Ha’atsma’ut—Israel’s independence day, which occurred a mere three years after the Holocaust but 2,000 years after the second exile; a month later is Yom Yerushalayim celebrating the reunification of Jerusalem 47 years ago; also Lag Ba’omer—a joyful celebration; Shavuot marking the receiving of the Torah, and so on ...you get the picture, the big picture.

Concerning the weather in Arizona, described in the opening paragraph above, those suffering through this record cold winter should console themselves in the thought of imminent weather change here too. Soon winter will pass and you might find us hiking Wildwood, admiring the budding trees and flowers, while back in Arizona (or Florida?) they bake in daily 110 degree weather!

Whether you drive a Japanese or American (or any other) car, many of the above mentioned milestones on our calendar will be marked or celebrated in a special way here at B’nai Israel and in the community, such as the amazing, not-to-be-missed Purim Spiel, or the wonderful traditional Megillah reading the Saturday night before the Spiel, Yom Hashoa for the community and so on... We look forward to greeting and welcoming you warmly, as well as at daily and Shabbat services, where there is often something special scheduled, that we hope you will often avail yourselves of.

When Purim Arrives, We Must Be Happy!

By Rabbi Jason Miller

The Purim holiday is on its way which means that we are already thinking about the Pesach holiday. There are many connections between Purim and Pesach to which we should give serious thought. Even the differences between the two holidays provide us with food for thought.

The Talmud teaches that the close proximity of Purim and Pesach is a halachic (Jewish legal) requirement because even in a leap year (like this year), Purim is celebrated in the second month of Adar, the one closest to Pesach in order that the two redemptions, from Pharaoh and from Haman respectively, will be celebrated in consecutive months.

When the month of Adar, featuring Purim, begins we are instructed to increase our joy. The Medieval French commentator Rashi explains that the increased level of joy continues through Purim and includes Pesach, further underscoring the close connection between the two holidays.

We often think of Purim as the fun holiday compared to the seriousness of Pesach. However, both holidays should be taken seriously and both holidays should be celebrated with fun activities. It is certainly understandable that we should be joyous during the month of Purim when we celebrate our deliverance from destruction and annihilation by the wicked Haman. Of course deliverance from national destruction is a cause for joy, so the month of should also be a time for great simcha (joy). Pesach commemorates our deliverance from Egyptian bondage and what could have been the destruction of the Jewish people.

Both Purim and Pesach should also be observed with the seriousness of the historical situations which we commemorate. We must remember how fragile our Jewish community is when its survival is threatened by a villain the likes of a Haman or a Pharaoh. We also see the theme of strong leadership running throughout the Purim and Pesach narratives. The redemption of our people on both Purim and Pesach was ultimately orchestrated by God, but we are grateful to the leadership of Esther and Moses together with their supporting cast. We can learn a lot from these leaders.

Another connection between the two holidays is the use of wine to celebrate our survival and freedom. On Purim, a person is obligated to drink until he or she doesn't know the difference between "Cursed be Haman" and "Blessed be Mordechai." On Pesach, the four cups of wine represent the four expressions of redemption mentioned in the Torah. On Purim we drink to forget, while on Pesach we drink to remember.

The major difference between the two holidays is that on Purim almost everything goes, while on Pesach there are many restrictions. I encourage us all to come to shul and have fun and be silly on Purim, and to observe Pesach with great care and commitment. However, I also want to encourage you all to observe the mitzvot (obligations) of Purim—hearing the Megillah, sending mishloach manot (Purim baskets), and giving charitably to the less fortunate—with seriousness.

Elissa, Josh, Jonah and Talya join me in wishing everyone in our shul family a Happy Purim!

First Shabbat Luck Turned Feb. 21 into Shabbat

On Friday, February 21, Congregation B'nai Israel had its inaugural Shabbat Luck, a pot luck dinner, at four different host homes. The concept was introduced to our congregation by Rena Leizerman. Thank you for the hospitality to Rena and Michael Leizerman, Fagie and Eli Benstein, Allie and Dan Berns, and Fran and Chuck Weinblatt who hosted the evening. Each family who attended brought an assigned item, such as salad, challah, wine or dessert. There were 53 members and prospective members who attended ranging in age from six months to the upper eighties. Everyone had a wonderful time, ate some delicious food, got to know some people better, and meet some new people. We hope to plan another Shabbat Luck in the future and we hope you will join us!

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

By Kim Brody, Principal

We have been very busy at Religious School despite the setbacks from our winter weather. Our students have been working diligently to raise tzedakah for Jewish Family Service. Two of our classes held a bake sale to benefit JFS. All of our classes have been competing in a Penny War project initiated by our fifth grade (kitah hay). We are extremely proud of our students for initiating and carrying out these projects on their own. Our open house was enjoyed by all! It was great to meet new friends who enjoyed many fun Purim activities with us. A highlight for our kitah hay class was learning the words to the song "Frozen" in Hebrew. Our upper grades had the opportunity to hear Cami Golding share her experience of becoming a Jew by choice. We shared this enlightening experience with our friends from Shomer Emunim. We are looking forward to many upcoming events for Purim and Pesach.

The Kindness of Truth

(This article was edited from the original written by Rabbi J. Bienenfeld of Congregation Etz Chayim)

The world rests upon three things: Torah, worship, and bestowing kindness (Avot 1:2). The importance of chesed—acts of kindness—in Judaism is axiomatic, as it develops a caring and successful society, in the image of G-d.

Yet while chesed remains the hallmark of the Jewish community, the most important form of chesed often goes unnoticed, even unfulfilled, that of caring for the departed with the greatest dignity, in accordance with Jewish law and tradition. It is upon this form of kindness that the Sages placed the honorific, “Chesed shel Emet,” or “Kindness of Truth,” since the act of caring for another after death is done without any ulterior motive - there is no way for the individual to ever repay the favor.

The task of “Kindness of Truth” is carried out by a “Chevra Kadisha,” or “Sacred Society” who care for the departed in a manner prescribed by Jewish law and tradition, known as “tahara,” or “purification.” While the Toledo Jewish community boasts a long tradition of the Chevra Kadisha, we are greatly in need of new volunteers, and of providing members with continuing education.

On Sunday, March 30, we will welcome Rabbi Elchanan Zohn, a world-renowned expert in this field, to Toledo. Rabbi Zohn travels around the world to develop greater awareness in this most important area. The program will feature a three-hour workshop on the tahara process and address questions of members and non-members of the Chevra Kadisha. In gratitude to those who currently serve, a dinner for members will be held in the evening at Etz Chayim, with Rabbi Zohn the keynote speaker.

The entire program is being generously underwritten by Inge Horowitz, through the Dr. Philip and Inge Horowitz Fund of the Toledo Jewish Foundation, in memory of her beloved Phil. It is fitting that this should honor Phi’s memory, since to him the study and practice of medicine was not merely a technical and academic pursuit, rather a sanctified calling to touch the physical being who was blessed to be in the spiritual image of the Creator. And when medicine was no longer of avail, he believed the physical remains deserved the same reverence and respect given in life.

It is our hope that this program will generate new interest in this most important area of Jewish life, and begin to acknowledge the efforts of our dedicated Chevra Kadisha. May we go, as a community, from strength to strength.

Program on Sunday, March 30, 2014

Workshop: 2:00 - 5:00 p.m., Sekach Building, Federation Campus. All welcome.

Dinner: 7:00 p.m., Congregation Etz Chayim honoring current Chevra Kaddisha members.
